Robinson fire is arson

By JOSH SHEPHERD, NEWS WRITER

Arson is suspected in a hoop barn fire that destroyed tens of thousands of dollars in hay bales and farm equipment Tuesday afternoon in Robinson. According to Harrison County Deputy Sheriff Dean Hutchison, emergency dispatchers received a call reporting the barn fire between 1:30 and 2 p.m. from a witness who observed the rising smoke and flames while driving on Robinson Road.

The witness also reported seeing two unidentified people running from the area of the barn just before the fire became visible, Hutchison said. The fire was in a large hoop barn on a farm owned by Harrison County residents David and Pam Woods. A hoop barn is a structure consisting of a metal frame enclosed by a stretched fabric material. The barn contained approximately 1,500 square hay bales stacked over 20 feet high. There were also 75 hay rolls as well as a tractor and wagon, Hutchison said. Harrison County firefighters responded to the emergency. After attempts to extinguish it failed, firefighters reported that the fire had reached the center of the hay. There was nothing left to do but contain the fire and let it burn itself out. The hay, equipment and barn were a total loss, Hutchison said. Based on the initial report of the fire, and on footprints that officers observed in the snow at the scene, the sheriff's department decided to treat the incident as a possible arson. An investigation into the incident continues. Anyone who has information regarding the fire should contact the Sheriff's department at 234-7135.

One day away from losing spring break, says superintendent

By JOSH SHEPHERD, NEWS WRITER

As of press time Wednesday morning, the unofficial Harrison County School calendar has preserved all five scheduled days of spring break and targets June 6 as the last day of school. However, if weather forces one more cancelled day, spring break will be reduced to just Monday and Tuesday, according to Harrison County School Superintendent Andy Dotson. "We are running out of options," Dotson said. Contrary to rumors circulating in the community regarding the school calendar, there are no so-called "state emergency days" after a school cancels so many class days due to adverse weather conditions. "To claim 'calamity days', it would have to be impossible for a school system to meet its required 1,062 hours by the end of June," Dotson said. "We would have to get special permission from the state to do that. But that's an extreme situation that doesn't apply to us," Dotson said. However, according to recent statistics, weather has forced the cancellation of 18 days of school, David Case, Assistant School Superintendent, said.

Students missed only two days of school in December, Case said. However, from Jan. 2 - Feb. 11, Harrison County students have missed 16 of 27 school days. The most consecutive days that students were in school this past month is seven over a two-week period, he said. In addition, the school has exhausted four of its five allotted emergency hours, Dotson said. As an indication of the havoc that weather has played with the school calendar this year, when school began last August, the last day was scheduled for May 21, Dotson said. And that scheduled date was over the minimum requirement of 170 six-hour days, he said. "I have received several calls asking that we hold on to spring break and that we don't go into the second week of June. And so far, we have been able to preserve that," Dotson said. To compensate for the lost hours, school will be in session the following days: Monday, Jan 17 - President's Day, which was always an option in case of snow days. Abandoned Great Dane nearly 100 pounds underweight

By BECKY BARNES, EDITOR

It's not likely that county officials will be able to find out who starved a Great Dane and left him barely able to move alongside U.S. 27 North two weeks ago. Allen Fryman, animal control officer, said there have been numerous cases of animal cruelty in Harrison County over the years. However, this one, he said, has to be one of the worst cases he has witnessed.

The Great Dane, now given the moniker "Duke," weighed 51 pounds when a couple of good Samaritans picked him up alongside the highway and called Fryman. Duke should weigh in the 130 to 150 range, Fryman said. "There's worse things than death," Fryman said. "And, this is one of them." Fryman suspects the dog was kept in a kennel or cage. Otherwise, he said, Duke could have foraged enough food to be in better shape. "It's sad to think that someone just drove down the road and tossed him out," Fryman said. "There's no excuse to let a dog get like this." Fryman said there is no charge to Harrison Countians for turning an animal into the shelter. He said he understands that families can hit financial hard times and base expansion we need to provide the services expected of our citizens. I have no personal political agenda other than a cost efficient county government. I will represent the issues and concerns of our citizens to the fiscal court and respond in a timely manner to all inquiries.

"I am a commonsense conservative, realizing that to be progressive we must sometimes compromise. I have the experience, dedication and time to do an effective job," he said.

Marshall seeks re-election as Dist. 3 magistrate

Brad Marshall, 54, is seeking re-election as a magistrate for District 3.

Marshall has lived in this district his entire life and wants to continue to represent the citizens' interests of this area.

He has served four terms as magistrate. During the past 16 years, he has served on the road department committee, eight of those as the chairman.

Marshall said he considers one of the main accomplishments during his service as county road improvements and upgrading equipment for better service.

Davis Lane has also been paved and 21 bridges have been replaced in the county. In the near future four more bridges will be replaced; two of these in District 3 will be on Bobtown Road and Cummins Lane.

Marshall is a cattle farmer and was the owner/operator of Marshall's Tractor Parts from its opening in 1989 until he retired in 2010.

He serves on several boards including: Bluegrass Energy's board of directors for 15 years, and Kentucky Bank's board for 12 years.

Copes makes bid for re-election

District 8 magistrate Bradley Copes has filed for re-election seeking his third term.

Copes is a 59-year-old life-long resident of Harrison County, an HCHS graduate and a UK alumni.

"I am serving by second term and would like to ask the voters of the 8th District to allow me the opportunity to continue working for them," Copes said. "As a taxpayer myself, I want to see results from my taxes that benefit my community."

Copes said that since taking office, eight of the 21 bridges replaced in the county have been in the 8th District, along with two major projects to replace Apple Lane and Union-Robinson bridges soon.

The remaining gravel roads were all cold laid and all cold laid roads were resurfaced, along with most blacktop roads, he said.

Copes attributed good communications with the Kentucky Transportation Department on the local and state level for getting assistance with the 1284 West hill slip and the Petty Road slip repairs.

"This line of communication can only help with future projects," Copes said.

He also noted that he has taken on grant writing in an effort to obtain state and federal monies for local projects.

"This resulted in a $42,500 grant I received this year for Flat Run Veterans' Park. Another

Yearsley to run for Dist. 7 magistrate

Brad Yearsley, 41, has announced his candidacy for Magistrate in District 7.

Yearsley is a member of the Leesburg Christian Church. He has been a part-time farmer for the last 23 years and is also employed by Harrison County Board of Education. He has worked in public education for 19 years.

"I have always loved working with children and have devoted my entire life to it," Yearsley said.

He has three children, Clay 5, Macy, 11, and Kyle, 16, who attend school in Harrison County.

Yearsley has served on numerous advisory councils and boards. He is currently the immediate past president for the Central

Brad Yearsley

Kentucky Special Education Cooperative and is vice president for Community Employment Opportunities in Harrison County.

"The biggest determining factor in me deciding to run for magistrate is facing the fear that my children may leave this community when they become adults due to the lack of opportunities Harrison County currently has to offer them," he said. "This community has the potential to flourish and grow. I feel our current and previous government officials have done a nice job getting things in place to take the next steps for that growth.

"The industrial park has been put in place and the work at Flat Run Veterans Park offers increased recreational opportunities for community members of all ages. Harrison County has the potential to be the kind of community that people will want to move to, invest in property, raise their children, find employment and retire in.

"I would just like an opportunity to help in any way make Harrison County that kind of Community. I don't expect to come in and have all the answers, but I want to do everything I can to improve opportunities for our citizens now and for our children's future. I look at this as an exciting opportunity for me to serve our community in a new way."

He served on the committee to establish the Cynthiana Art Walk and continues to work on that event in his role as president of the Cynthiana Arts Council.

"I believe we have to revitalize Cynthiana and make her a place people want to visit and live," said Slade. "We can do this through beautification, recreation and increased economic opportunities. Cynthiana needs a plan focusing on each year with measurable goals to be reached every 1, 5 and 10 years."

During his term as public works commissioner, his department has reduced its budget and expanded its performance.

He said he feels everyone working together and expecting great outcomes has accomplished this.

"It is time to stop focusing on what has gone wrong in the past. Let's learn from it, make a plan, and start building a better tomorrow. We can do this."

It could be be worse...

It could be worse. We could live in Atlanta where salt is only for the table; where a snow like the one two weeks ago cripples the city and ice in the forecast for Wednesday.

Becky Barnes
Editor

Or we could live here where our road departments have salt on hand, though a dwindling stock for sure.

We have three fantastic road crews making sure we can get to and from work or the grocery or to our doctors.

The state crews handle the primary roads through the county. There are also county-maintained primary roads. And Cynthiana has its own crew.

During these recent weeks of storm after storm, these fellas have had their hands full trying to keep up with all that has fallen from the heavens.

In some cases, where the sun never hits the road, there are still slick spots. They may be there until the spring thaw.

And when will that be?

Chris Bailey, who writes a blog at kyweathercenter.com and is the chief meteorologist at WKYT, said 60s in his prediction for sometime next week.

That sounds promising.

On Tuesday, I noticed snow piles that had been formed with scraper blades had no melt seeping from their edges. It was sunny, albeit not warm, but one would think just the sun's convection would have some melting affects.

It's almost like the snow came from a spray can and will never go away. I likened it to the Christmas spray that flocks windows and doors and will be there until next Christmas unless scraped away with a razor blade.

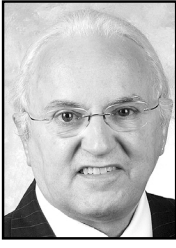

I'm ready for all of it to just go away.

I'm optimistic that a couple of 60-degree days will take care of the gray matter.

I know everyone will be glad to see the snow go away and warmer days ahead.

We could be in Atlanta

Two milestones reached in first third of session

Walter Blevins Jr.
Guest Writer

This week saw two milestones of the 2014 Regular Session: The first third of the session completed and the first bill to receive final passage of the entire General Assembly. Senate Bill 7 is an important measure aimed at increasing accessibility to health care in Kentucky.

It will allow experienced nurse practitioners to independently prescribe routine medicines, but not controlled substances. This comes after years of dedicated effort between lawmakers and medical professionals, and we are proud that the first bill to land on the governor's desk this year is one that will ease the burden on patients and their practitioners.

Many other bills earned the Senate's stamp of approval this week and were sent to the other end of the Capitol's third floor to the House.

Among them, Senate Bill 87 would allow high school juniors and seniors to use Kentucky Educational Excellence Scholarship (KEES) money to pay for up to six dual-credit hours at colleges and universities in the state.

The bill would also allow these students to use the scholarship money in high school to begin career or technical education toward professional licenses or certificates.

One of our goals has always been to provide Kentucky students with the best educational opportunities possible and to prepare them for fulfilling careers. That is what this bill does.

The earlier students become engaged in post-secondary education, the more likely they are to succeed.

This would give students a jump start on college and is another option for students to best utilize their hard-earned KEES money.

While we spend much time and focus each year crafting proposals to benefit our children, sometimes they are the ones to come to us with effective and needed legislation.

Such was the case with Senate Bill 20, passed on Tuesday.

A result of work by middle school students in Madison County, this measure would recognize October as Anti-Bullying Month in the Commonwealth and establish the purple and gold ribbon as a symbol of bullying awareness.

Bullying behavior, especially online, has sadly become a hard and sometimes tragic reality for many of our students. This will help raise awareness and, we hope, prevent this type of peer abuse in the future.

It was another group of constituents that suggested the provisions of Senate Bill 64, also passed on Tuesday.

Currently, ATV riders are not required to wear helmets when on private property or when engaging in business activities, such as farming.

This bill would allow them to cross some two-lane highways (those with speed limits under 55 miles per hour) without a helmet when working or trail-riding on privately owned land.

This week, Gov. Beshear released his tax modernization plan, which he says would create jobs, expand existing industry, and ensure a healthier workforce and economy. His plan, which is based on the Governor's Blue Ribbon Commission on Tax Reform, is designed to update the tax system and make our state more competitive.

In the coming days, the General Assembly will vet the governor's plan and will add ideas of our own. We may not be in complete agreement on the whole package, but the fact is we have not had comprehensive tax reform in Kentucky since the 1950s.

We need changes to our tax system to boost our economy and to create new jobs. I hope everyone comes to the table to seriously discuss this issue that has not gotten the full attention it needs in over 60 years.

This is just a quick snapshot of the work this week. There are many other issues being discussed in Frankfort and I encourage you to join in those discussions.

Our representative form of government was designed to give the people of Kentucky a voice. You have a big say in the laws affecting you.

Mailbag

Reader: Taxes not well spent

To the editor:

I would like to reply to last week's mailbag letter. I agree with Mr. Kendall regarding our tax dollars. In my opinion, the money could have been used for repairs to the John Hunt Morgan Bridge and the re-opening of Ladish Road. They should have made it a one-way street into Cynthiana. Instead we have this new by-pass equipped with new bridges that is supposed to help with traffic. What I see is, the traffic still gets backed up in the afternoon on a bridge that does not look safe to me. Do the leaders think this bridge is safe?

I don't know who the leaders are that made these decisions for Cynthiana and Harrison County. I do know, it doesn't take a genius to figure that we did not need a by-pass taking people away from our town!

Why didn't we use the money to help revive our town? Oh yeah, I forgot, we did invest in our community. We have a Justice Center, (now they want to remodel the old Courthouse), we have the Business Park (with no new anything in it) and a new by-pass with a fancy circle in the middle called a round-about that is, in my opinion, one big joke! Tax dollars are being wasted.

I don't think the leaders that made these decisions for Cynthiana and Harrison County deserve another term.

fully completed the Kentucky Constable Associations recent handgun and rifle qualification held at the Heinz Military Range located in Fort Knox.

Clifford graduated from Harrison County High School in 1976 and is married to his wife of 27 years Leslie, who is employed by the Lexington Public Library.

C.J. Clifford, his son, is married to Tomi Jean Dailey and is the owner/operator of a Snap On tool franchise. They have one daughter, Henley Jean.

In Kentucky, the position of constable was established in the 1850 Constitution. The present Constitution requires the election of one constable for each district. Constables are Peace Officers with broad power of arrest and authority to serve court processes, Clifford explained.

He added that they have the authority to enforce both the Traffic and Criminal Code of Kentucky. The Kentucky Constitution states that Constables will possess the same qualifications as sheriff and may exercise jurisdiction in any part of the county.

The purpose of the Kentucky Constable is to uphold the law firmly and fairly, to prevent crime, to pursue and bring to justice those who break the law, to keep the peace, to protect, help and reassure the community in which they serve. All of this must be done with a sense of integrity, common sense and sound judgment, Clifford said.

Clifford is a Kentucky Department of Criminal Justice certified Concealed Carry Deadly Weapons instructor and a NRA certified Home Safety and Basic Pistol Instructor.

"I have worked to bring honor and dignity to the office of constable and with the support of 6th District voters, I will continue my mission for the next election cycle."

He served as chairman of the Harrison County Extension District tax board during the 1990s when the new Extension building was built.

Fritz is a member of the Harrison County Farm Bureau and the Harrison County Beef Cattle Association, of which he is a past president for both organizations.

During the 1990s, before the tobacco buy-out, he was involved in many state and national tobacco issues. He served as president of the Council for Burley Tobacco, an eight-state organization. He was also president of Kentucky

Burley Farmers Advisory Council.

He represented Kentucky Farm Bureau as a member of the National Advisory Committee for Tobacco Inspection Services, for which he served as chairman.

As a member of the fiscal court, Fritz serves on the road committee, courthouse renovation committee and is chairman of the personnel committee.

"It has truly been an honor to have served on the fiscal court the past two terms," said Fritz. "I hope to continue serving for another term. I want to thank the voters of District 6 who supported me in the past elections. I hope that I have served to your satisfaction. I know that myself and other members of the fiscal court are very careful and concerned about how we use taxpayers' dollars.

"I think we have accomplished many things in past years. There are always many issues that need to be addressed to keep Harrison County moving forward and I look forward to working on these issues."

Fritz said that he believes his experience on the fiscal court and leadership abilities makes him capable of confronting any issue that faces Harrison County in the future.

He added that Harrison County is one of the best places in the world to live and raise a family.

"I want that to continue and improve for ours and future generations," he said.

different U.S. states by the time I was 40 years old, has made me appreciate our military and the need to make a positive impact on place I call home."

Grenier has a small hobby farm on Shadynook Pike. "My family is relatively new to farming and animal husbandry; however, my grandfather had a farm in western Pennsylvania that we loved to visit when he was still alive. I wish he could see me fixing my mower with drapery hook; I'd make him proud."

She said living out in the county and caring for the animals as well as tending the fields have given her a closer insight to the needs of our farming community.

Grenier has two daughters: Kristin, 24, a graduate of Transylvania University, serving with AmeriCorps in Massachusetts; and, Kelly, 20, a student at Berea College.

"Cynthiana is steeped in tradition; it's one of its strongest attributes. But, if we want to meet the challenges of changing economies, we must be willing to work creatively," Grenier said. "This doesn't mean casting care to the wind, but it means listening to the needs of our residents and trying to find resourceful ways to help. I have comfortable walking shoes, and plan to wear them while I walk the roads of District 3 hoping to meet each and every one of you."

Jones seeks bid as appeals judge

Allison Jones is seeking her first full term as a judge in the 6th District Court of Appeals.

Jones was appointed appellate judge last September to serve out the remainder of Judge Michelle Keller's unexpired term. Judge Keller had left the seat vacant when she accepted an appointment to the Kentucky Supreme Court.

Prior to her appointment, Jones was serving as an administrative law judge on worker's compensation claims. Jones also has several years of experience as a trial court judge, which she said is an important element in being an effective appellate judge.

"I am better able to appreciate what trial lawyers and judges do everyday, because I've been there," Jones said.

Jones explained that appeals court judges are not fact-finders. She is part of a three judge panel that looks at the elements of a trial to make sure there were no errors made at the lower court level.

"Having listened and

worked with people from the bench on worker's compensation claims, I understand how important it is to make sure the process worked right. For the majority of people, the court of appeals is their court of last resort," Jones said.

Because courts of appeals travel all over the 6th district to hear cases, Jones said she takes the opportunity to interact with the towns and communities, arranging to talk with students in school, law enforcement officers and other trial lawyers.

"It's from them that I learned just how serious and widespread the heroin problem is in our state," Jones said.

Since then, she has worked with the Kentucky Attorney-General's office to participate in forums on heroin.

"I think it's important that judges also act as public servants. It is tempting to let yourself get isolated as a judge. I think it's terribly important, especially as an appellate judge, to be involved in communities," Jones said.

Jones has plenty of reason to be involved. She and her husband, Lawrence, live in Oldham County. They have two children, a daughter, Riley, who is 9, and a son, Reed, who will soon be turning 6.

"My children help me 'stay real' as a judge and ground me," Jones said.

Jones is a native of Hawesville in Hancock County, a very small community of just over 1,000 people.

"I think my small town roots help me relate to the communities in the sixth district. I understand the life and needs of small community life," she said.

(2) produce a paper audit trail of all votes cast, (3) to improve accessibility for individuals with disabilities; and (4) to facilitate in-house and mail-in absentee voting.

Furnish followed guidelines as set by the Kentucky Disabilities Coalition in surveying polling locations. She found that a few locations were acceptable, but in an effort to be fair and consistent to all registered voters, she decided to locate all polling locations in school buildings. The Harrison County Fiscal Court approved the decision with a considerable savings to the county budget. Precinct officers and voters were assured a safer voting environment.

Furnish chose eSlate voting equipment recommended by the State Board of Elections. These machines offer any disabled person the option of voting independently and privately.

She has secured equal Democratic and Republican representation among precinct officers at each polling location. Reapportionment of magisterial districts was completed in May 2011 as set by Kentucky statutes. Precinct establishment orders for redistricting were sent to the state for approval in December 2011. Early February 2012 the state legislature split Harrison County between the 4th and 6th Congressional districts. Harrison County's precinct establishment orders and the redistricting process was recommended by the State Board of Elections to other county clerks to use as guidelines.

Furnish works with the Harrison County High School and the Lions Club each year to coordinate Youth Day. The students use the voting machines for their elections. She has added more state computers in the motor vehicle department and her deputies are cross trained for better customer service. She continues to work on development and training on KAVIS (Kentucky Automated Vehicle Information System). The extensive work on this project in Frankfort will make the transition smoother for her office staff. She serves as an advisor for smaller counties on the RORB committee for the KAVIS project. Harrison County is one of the eight counties participating in the KAVIS sandbox training sessions. Furnish has completed over 611 hours of additional training as approved by the state.

Furnish has been an active member of St. Edward Catholic Church for 42 years. She served on the St. Edward School Board for 17 years. She is a member of the Kentucky County Clerks' Association, Harrison County Democratic Women's Club, and the Cynthiana Rotary. She is a Paul Harris Fellow.

Deputies at the clerk's office are Linda Barnes, Carol Rogers, Shelly Kearns, Kim Bell, Shelly Coppage, Stevi Grose and Sue Ann Sanders. They have a combined total of 139 years of work experience.

Furnish asks that the citizens of Harrison County continue to support her efforts by voting for her in the May 20, 2014, Primary. "I may not make it to your front door, but I guarantee that I will continue to work for you here in Harrison County and in Frankfort. I am not a politician. I am a public servant who does not take a moment for granted. Be active and go to the polls to vote. Call the clerk's office at 234-7130 with any questions. To check your voter registration, go to www.elect.ky.gov. Remember that in the Primary election you may only vote for a candidate in your party."

Copes said he plans to broaden the scope of grant proposals for future projects such as support for senior citizens.

"They need our support and they have mine," he said. "I will continue voting to control excess spending caused by too much government or unwanted and unneeded projects that eat your tax dollar. To this end, being fiscally responsible will ensure the funding needed to provide services and maintain the infrastructure needed by the citizens of Harrison County without increasing the tax burden."

Copes is a member of the road committee and chairman of the farm and facilities committee, which oversees operation and maintenance of county-owned properties.

"While working to fulfill my duties, I have made personal contacts in Frankfort, both legal and procedural, that allow me to get answers and help in a timely fashion," Copes said. "When taking a stand on an issue, legal ramifications should be the guiding factor along with correct procedure. I speak my mind and stand for what I believe, hopefully, it is representative of your needs."

He said he will be going door-to-door campaigning and urges those who have questions to call him at the number listed in the phone book and leave a message with information to make a return call.

God provides a plan for “Living Free”

Church News

Free!
The word “Free” draws a lot of images to our mind. You may have been thinking “debt free, anxiety free, worry free or just plain “what can I get for free.” In these times, “free” could bring some relief to our lives with bacon $4 a pound and anything priced a $1 just means the package has been made smaller. When I was a young mom with three small children, I would have appreciated anything for free. My world was so small all I could think about was having enough money to buy diapers and food for my family. I came to a crisis one day, alone in my home speaking to no one, but someone that would hear, “Save me and my family.” I would like to say a knock came at the door and bags of merchandise flooded my home. Instead, I found myself a week later standing in a church on a hot August summer night. I hadn’t been in a church for many years and honestly believed that God had probably given up on me through those years. I listened to a pastor speak about living in freedom. Freedom from anxiety, freedom from worry and all this stemmed from a free gift. He had my attention and later on I would understand that God also had my heart. He shared from the Bible the words of Jesus in Matthew 6:31-33. NKJV “Therefore do no worry saying, ‘What shall we eat?’ or ‘What shall we drink?’ or ‘What shall we wear?’ For after all these things the Gentiles seek. For your heavenly Father knows that you need all these things. But seek first the kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all these things shall be added unto you.” That passage tells us that God knows our needs and has provided a plan of “Living Free.” Seek first in your life God’s promises through his kingdom and make right your relationship with your Heavenly Father by accepting His gift, His son, Jesus. Then you will begin to experience the hand of God as he works out all the things needed in your world. Let me be clear in saying that doesn’t mean we will still not have troubles, but the troubles will now have God to deal with. The invitation is for you accept this gift of God and begin to experience a life free of fear, worry and anxiety. That is my prayer for you who are reading this today.

Finding your soul mate

The other day posted on our newspaper’s Facebook page was a question for discussion: Do you believe in soul mates? Why or why not? Someone replied “Yes!” Another said he believes God puts the person meant for you in your life, and another said, “No. If there’s one for me, he must be lost because I have never found him. I really think it’s a fairy tale.” I love that answer. I’m not sure if I believe in a soul mate, at least not in the way the Urban Dictionary describes one: “A person with whom you have an immediate connection the moment you meet — a connection so strong that you are drawn to them in a way you have never experienced before. “As this connection develops over time, you experience a love so deep, strong and complex, that you begin to doubt that you have ever truly loved anyone prior. “Your soul mate understands and connects with you in every way and on every level, which brings a sense of peace, calmness and happiness when you are around them... the most significant and satisfying thing you will experience in your lifetime.”

Nancy Kennedy

GRACE NOTES

Wow. Does that sound like your marriage or current relationship? If not, don’t despair. Here are some tips to finding your soul mate that I found on the Internet (so you know it must be true). Believe you have a soul mate “out there somewhere.” Make your life “love friendly.” Gently say good bye to non-soul mate love. Clean your house for love — your emotional, spiritual and physical house. Don’t go looking for love; it will come to you. Get out there and be actively available. Don’t obsess over finding your soul mate. Finally, don’t confuse chemistry with destiny. The person who wrote these tips added, wisely, “When you meet someone you’re intensely attracted to, everything in your body could be telling you that this is your soul mate, but that could be hormones and lust talking. Remember that your soul mate could be someone who you already know but never even considered romantically.” The skeptic in me thinks this is pretty much hooey and these soul mate finding experts probably have a book or seminar they’re hawking. However, I also know that some couples are, or at least appear/claim to be, perfect complements of each other, yin and yang and all that. Maybe. I don’t know. I watch a lot of “Who the (Bleep) Did I Marry?” on Investigative Discovery and the stories all start out with “I thought we were soul mates” but end up with one person being a bigamist, thief or otherwise crazy. But here’s the problem I see: If your current marriage isn’t as soul matey as you thought it would be, then bailing when things get tough or boring is an easy excuse to leave and look for your “real” soul mate. After all, he or she is out there somewhere waiting for you. And if you’re human in a relationship with another human, despite what you or I might want to believe, no human can fill up all the empty spaces. Eventually, all human relationships at times disappoint. One of the Internet soul mate gurus suggested those who are searching should “honor the yearning,” that the “time of longing and yearning for love is the most powerful time. It means love is so close you can feel it, and there is a part of you recognizing that there is something missing. There is something that drives us to want to love deeply and completely, in a relationship we feel is meant to be.” That, I actually agree with. St. Augustine said, “Thou hast made us for thyself, O Lord, and our hearts are restless until they find their rest in thee.” King Solomon said God has set eternity in our hearts, that we’re born with a knowledge of him. Our hearts know something — someone — is missing. Theologian Blaise Pascal called this longing and knowing a “God-shaped vacuum.” If it’s God-shaped, then logically only God can fill it. As the soul mate expert said, “There is something that drives us to want to love deeply and completely, in a relationship we feel is meant to be.”

If that’s the case, then to answer my own question about believing in soul mates, I’d have to say yes, I do believe — and I’ve found mine. Actually, he found me. His name is Jesus. Nancy Kennedy is the author of “Move Over, Victoria - I Know the

Main Street Program director ready for downtown revitalization

By BECKY BARNES, Editor

Emily Ammerman said her love of downtown Cynthiana and historic preservation will serve her well as she embarks on her new career.

Ammerman has been named the Main Street Program director for Cynthiana.

She has the daunting task of breathing life back into Cynthiana.

“I applied for this position because I want to take action and help out as much as I can,” Ammerman said.

The Main Street Program is something new for Cynthiana.

It’s not the Renaissance Program, Ammerman said.

The Renaissance Program was similar in that both were charged with making improvements downtown.

The now dissolved Renaissance Program was responsible for the new sidewalks, benches and lights on the south-side entrance to the city from the John Hunt Morgan bridge.

That program disbanded after grant monies were expended.

The Main Street Program has a much broader scope, Ammerman said.

There are a few steps that have to be taken to get the Main Street

Program off the ground.

Nine board of directors have been selected, Ammerman reported at Tuesday’s Cynthiana City Commission meeting.

From there will be the formation of four committees who will oversee four areas of concern. They are organization, promotion, design and economic restructuring.

Ammerman described the four points as the follows:

- Organization -- Building partnerships within the commercial district and recruiting volunteers. It’s the organization of individuals who make up the Main Street program. The goal here is to build consensus and cooperation between all who are part of the program.
- Promotion -- which means marketing the Main Street program and marketing the businesses. Things like advertising retail promotions and planning special events that get people downtown are examples of promotions in the Main Street program.

- Design -- Is all about taking visual opportunities and using them to the program’s advantage, making downtown a safe and intriguing place for the community and visitors to come. The street-scape, window displays, landscaping, and merchandising all fall under design.
- Economic Restructuring -- Is about developing a commercial district that responds to the needs of today’s consumers. We want to make existing businesses stronger, while also expanding this community’s market with new businesses that the public needs.

She said volunteers will be needed to help carry out the tasks and events that will be presented.

“We want to set up a strong foundation,” Ammerman said.

She said she will be carrying out the wishes of the board of directors.

“I want people to stop in and tell me their concerns,” she said, noting that she is located at New Orleans Place in the Planning and Community Development office at 117 N. Main St., Suite 4.

She can also be reached at 234-7165.

Ammerman, 24, is married to Joseph Ammerman. They have one daughter, Harlan, who is 2 years old.

Ammerman is a 2008 graduate of Harrison County High School. She earned her bachelor’s degree in art history from the University of Kentucky.

She is the daughter of Cindy and Bobby Barnes and the late Billy Vance.

Ammerman said that growing up in Cynthiana afforded her the opportunity to grow up with the businesses that were part of downtown.

She said the Main Street Program will be working toward making existing businesses stronger, preserving buildings where possible and working on the street-scape.

There will be funding sources to be tapped into from the state to help out.

Ammerman will work part-time for now, most likely on a three-day schedule.

She said she has to be careful not to take on so much that the program can’t sustain itself.

“Baby steps,” she said.

Court considers new lease for Handy House project

By JOSH SHEPHERD, News Writer

While acknowledging that there is still time left on the original lease agreement to restore the historic Handy House at Flat Run Veteran’s Park, most magistrates on the Harrison County Fiscal Court were clearly reluctant to transfer the lease to the Harrison County Heritage Council.

Several magistrates expressed concerns about which entity, the county or the council, would ultimately get saddled with the responsibility of maintaining the property long-term if restoration efforts were even partially successful.

Marilyn Bell, representing the Harrison County Heritage Council, appeared before the court to follow up on the council’s request from last November.

Craig Potts, executive director of the Kentucky Heritage Council, and Peggy Guier, staff attorney for the council, were also present at the regular fiscal court meeting to offer support for continuing the project.

According to Bell, the Harrison County Historical Society has decided to relinquish their interest in the Handy House restoration project. However, she said that the heritage council is still passionate about restoring the home and would like the opportunity to take over the terms of the lease.

However, they can do nothing without the city commission and fiscal court turning over the reins of the original lease agreement from the historical society to the council.

Time is a factor, she said. The lease terminates December 2015 and the council is anxious to move forward on the project.

Potts said the scope of the project is not to restore the Handy House to its original condition.

“We support a project to rehabilitate the home. A rehabilitation project is cheaper and is designed to make the building useable,” Potts said.

He also said that a plan for the building’s use is also needed, but the council can’t move forward with anything without the court and commission agreeing to transfer the lease.

Bell said the council is prepared to move forward quickly and that a plan for the long term future of the house is in development.

There is $9,000 available for roof repair and a commitment from a west Kentucky group to repair the windows, she said.

Magistrate Larry Wells, showing a picture of a deteriorating section of the Handy House foundation on his electronic tablet, asked if there was money to restore that section of the house?

“There’s no point repairing roofs or front porches without repairing that foundation first,” Wells said and Potts agreed with Wells’ assessment.

Bell countered that the foundation would be one of the council’s main concerns, but no one on the council can even apply for grant money to make that repair without a transfer of the lease.

A key concern expressed by most magistrates was that investments in the Handy

House project would actually succeed in getting the building into useable shape. But after it gets in shape, will city and county taxpayers be on the hook to maintain the building in years to come?

What service to the county would the Handy House perform?

No one has presented a business plan for how the Handy House will generate revenues to maintain itself, Magistrate William Fritz said. It was a sentiment most of the magistrates shared.

In previous meetings, Bell argued that the home would be an excellent rental place for weddings and other community events.

Frank Henson said that he’d talked with event organizers at the Elks Club, Prizing House and Harrison County Country Club. All of them said if they did not have liquor by the drink, they would have very little revenues from weddings, Henson said.

Liquor sales, of course, are prohibited in public parks, Bell said.

Henson said that detail is a flaw in the stated business for the home’s use.

Persistent vandalism of the Handy House is another issue.

Bell said there has been no effort on the part of the city or county to protect the building from vandals. Though court members said vandalism was difficult to control, attorney Guier said that a simple and cheap deterrent is the installation of cameras at the site.

“They don’t cost much, but they are effective in curtailing vandals,” Guier said.

which is awaiting official approval from the school board.

Friday, March 28 - originally scheduled as a staff work day is now approved as a full school day.

Spring Break is still scheduled for April 7 - 11, Dotson said, but if one more day is missed it is likely that spring break will be shortened to just April 7th and 8th.

“I’d rather cut spring break than go deeper into June. Furthermore, because of the significance of Memorial Day as a time to honor veterans, I’d rather cut spring break than ask permission for that day be a school day,” Dotson said.

According to the official school calendar, spring and fall break are designated as being available as make-up days, Dotson added.

For the moment, though, these concerns are just academic. There are still two weeks left in February and March is notoriously unpredictable.

Dotson and Case do want to express their appreciation to Teresa Harp, the school transportation director, bus drivers and Mike Palmer with the Harrison County Emergency Management Agency for tracking winter storms and assessing county roads.

“Things might look good on the main roads, but we have two major bus routes on county roads that don’t get much sun. We can’t risk the kids. Nor do we want inexperienced teenage drivers out on ice-covered roads,” Dotson said.

Hopefully, the worst of the winter weather is finished, but there is no guarantee.

“We’ll jump the next hurdle if it comes,” Dotson said. “I hope it doesn’t.”

Animals can be dropped at the shelter anonymously or, if necessary, animals can be picked up at residences.

Fryman continued to shake his head and exclaim “There’s no excuse for this.”

Fryman said Duke is looking at several months of rehabilitation just to bring his weight to normal. His diet is specifically geared toward weight gain and that requires special food.

The first bag was donated by the Harrison Vet Clinic.

Fryman said donations are accepted and can be made for a specific animal.

Ice laden branches

The 2009 January ice storm knocked down limbs, electricity and phone service across Kentucky.

The damage to trees was astounding, to say the least. Last week's icy "situation" brought back the memory of those dread-filled days as we slowly tackled the clean-up effort at the farm.

This year's ice is not nearly as bad as 2009 but it sure left a mess in its wake. If you are among those with heavy damage assess the situation with an eye towards safety first and foremost.

There is no need to rush arborists, let them take care of the emergency jobs first.

A tree with a couple of broken branches can wait as can one that needs to be taken down.

The dangerous stuff should be priority. And, as sad as I am about the apparent losses, I do realize that there is opportunity here: We can avoid repeating site and selection mistakes and replace trees with improved varieties (but no tree is perfect every season of the year, under any circumstance).

The majority of the trees here at the farm that suffered damage either had some preexisting conditions or a certain profile that made

Jeneen Wiche

Columnist
www.
SwallowRailFarm.
com

them more vulnerable to a heavy ice load.

The eastern white pine with its soft wood, long needles and shallow roots made it susceptible to breakage, and in one case, uprooted.

There is so much surface area for ice to accumulate on white pines that the volume of ice weight is a heavy burden.

Other evergreens around town and at the farm seem to be managing just fine: Species of spruce (Oriental, Serbian and Norway), fir (Nordmann and white), and the Bosnian pine have shorter needles so less surface for ice accumulation.

Of course it is not surprising that trees that are multi-branched are more susceptible to damage, but the lacebark elm takes the cake.

We lost a big one in 2009; and the remaining of the pair got hit pretty hard this time around.

I love these trees but their open, multi-branched canopy makes them susceptible to failure under a heavy ice-load.

Other trees that need work include old "farm" trees. These old hackberries have forked trunks with included bark that results in a weak point. They also have old wounds that housed some decay ... these trees failed at these exact points under the ice load.

As usual the black gum, sweet gum, bald cypress, ginkgo and most oak species held up well to the ice.

Basically, species that have strong main leaders manage to hold up to the ice. It is not necessarily hardwood versus softwood, it is multi-branched versus single main leader.

Some trees are bent to the ground but have no signs of breakage. The river birch is extraordinary at this.

Do not try to "help" by propping it up while it is still covered in ice. We would be the ones doing the damage in this case.

Let everything thaw out naturally and proceed accordingly.

Back to the issue of safety: Certified arborists can help determine if your trees are safe to begin with.

Properly pruned trees can help to offset some problems and clean up others. Be mindful of any damage that could continue to be a hazard to a pedestrian, farm animal or structure and make these clean up chores priority.

You are responsible for what is on your property, from the trunk to the parts that may have fallen on your side of the fence (even if its origins are from another.) In the case of tree damage during storms where it lands is where the responsibility lies.

HMH named one of the Best Places to Work in Kentucky for 4th consecutive year

Harrison Memorial Hospital (HMH) was recently named as one of the Best Places to Work in Kentucky 2014. The awards program was created in 2005 and is a project of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, the Kentucky Society for Human Resource Management (KYSHRM) and Best Companies Group.

"We are delighted and proud to receive the prestigious honor for Harrison Memorial Hospital. HMH is the third largest employer in Harrison County, providing careers to more than 300 highly skilled, highly dedicated professionals in both the clinical and non-clinical fields." says Doug Hampton, Chairman of the Harrison Memorial Hospital Board of Directors. "One of the goals during my tenure as Board Chairman is to hire and retain the best possible staff. This award is a validation that the goal is being met consistently each year."

This statewide survey and awards program was designed to identify, recognize and honor the best places of employment in Kentucky, benefiting the state's economy, its workforce and businesses. The Best Places to Work in Kentucky 2014 list is made up of 73 companies. Harrison Memorial Hospital has been named one of the Best Places to Work in Kentucky.

To be considered for participation, companies had to fulfill the following eligibility requirements:

- Have at least 15 employees working in Kentucky;
- Be a for-profit or not-for-profit business or government entity;
- Be a publicly or privately held business;
- Have a facility in the state of Kentucky; and
- Must be in business a minimum of one year.

Companies from across the state entered the two-part process to determine the Best Places to Work in Kentucky. The first part consisted of evaluating each nominated company's workplace policies, practices and demographics through a questionnaire. The second part consisted of an employee survey to measure the employee experience. The combined scores determined the top companies and the final ranking. Best Companies Group managed the overall registration and survey process in Kentucky and also analyzed the data and used its expertise to determine the final rankings.

This year is the first in which the small/medium category has been divided, creating three categories - small companies of 15-149 employees, medium companies of 150-499 employees and large companies consisting of more than 500 employees.

This is the fourth consecutive year that HMH has been awarded this honor and is listed in the newly-formed medium company category. In 2013, HMH placed twelfth in the large company rankings.

"I am so elated that HMH has for the fourth consecutive year achieved our goal of setting a high standard of employment commitment. We are so proud of the people who are the heart of HMH," says Sheila Currans, HMH Chief Executive Officer. "I am convinced that when the employees of HMH feel valued, the patients benefit. We are all better equipped to serve our community when employees truly know they are the core of our success."

Harrison Memorial Hospital will be recognized and honored at the Best Places to Work in Kentucky 10th annual Awards Dinner on Tuesday, April 24 at the Lexington Convention Center. The final rankings will be announced at the event. A magazine recognizing the winners and their final rankings will be released for statewide distribution at that time.

Davis to be guest speaker at the Chamber of Commerce membership luncheon Feb. 26

The Cynthina-Harrison County Chamber of Commerce will be welcoming guest speaker Dr. Alison Davis at its Feb. 26 membership luncheon.

Davis is the executive director of the Community and Economic Development Initiative of Kentucky (CEDIK) that launched in fall of 2010.

The luncheon, sponsored by Cynthiana Vision Center, will be held at Biancke's from noon to 1 p.m. Wednesday. Reservations may be made by contacting the Chamber at cynchamber@setel.com or by calling 234-5236.

Her topic for this luncheon will be Harrison County: Current Trends and Future Possibilities.

Davis' job includes building relationships across campus and the Commonwealth to promote a stronger sense of community and an improved economic base.

She is responsible for obtaining external funds and generating a portfolio of programs that both county agents and non-Extension audiences can use.

In the last two years, CEDIK expanded to include 23 people including four staff, nine faculty (core and closely-affiliated), three county fine arts agents, six graduate students and two undergraduate students.

Davis is also responsible for growing her own individual extension program in Kentucky. Her programming is dedicated to advancing economic development and improving rural healthcare systems.

Her rural economic development program utilizes workshops, trainings and educational materials to highlight the importance of community engagement, infrastructure development, regionalism, and the impact of changing public policy on rural communities.

She was one of four authors for the Stronger Economies Together (SET) program. The program is funded by USDA Rural Development and the curriculum is being used by over 50 regions in over 20 states.

The program was recently awarded Top Educational Program by NACDEP (The National Association of Community Development Extension Professionals).

Davis' rural health program consists of educating community leaders and health care professionals about the economic impact of health care, implementing the community health needs assessment program, identifying markets for new health enterprises, and developing rural health networks to promote accessibility and quality health care for all rural communities.

Extension Center to offer grain herbicide meeting on Feb. 18

By GARY CARTER, Co. EXT. AGENT

The Harrison County Extension Office will offer a Grain Herbicide meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 18 starting at noon with lunch. The meeting will be held at the Harrison County Extension Center's large meeting room.

Over the last few years corn and soybean acres have increased dramatically in Harrison County. As we prepare for the coming season it becomes important to use the best options to control weeds that might have become a problem.

Dr. J.D. Greene from the University of Kentucky, will be on hand to discuss the weed difficulties along with ways to control weeds which have become a problem.

Since a meal will be served, I ask that you call prior so meal arrangements can be made. Also, we plan to recertify folks whose pesticide cards have expired.

Breds ice Polar Bears, lose heartbreaker to Campbell County Camels

By MIKE ALDRIDGE, SPORTS WRITER

The weekend of Thorobreds basketball went from a tremendous high on Friday with a 91-55 win at Bracken County to a low with a 63-61 loss at home to Campbell County on Saturday night.

The Bracken County game saw the Thorobreds start fast with an early lead as junior D.J. Jenkins and sophomore Zack Pulliam lit up the scoreboard with 15 of the Breds 21 first stanza points.

The younger Pulliam was starting in place of junior Trenton Thompson, who was ill and unable to play. Pulliam took advantage of his chance.

Hicks got his points driving to the basket as the Polar Bears did not have an answer for the junior's cutting, slicing moves to the hoop.

Only two Bracken County players scored in the opening period as the Breds led 21-8 at the first break.

The second quarter saw both teams pick up the scoring quite a lot. The Breds allowed 20 Bracken County points but scored 30 of their own for a 51-28 lead at the half.

Pulliam and Jenkins continued their hot scoring and were joined by senior Mason Ritchie, who totaled eight of his 12 game points in the second period.

The first half was totally dominated by Harrison County as they made 20 of 32 field goal attempts and grabbed 19 rebounds to Bracken County's seven.

At the half, Ritchie already had a good night with 10 points and six rebounds while freshman Austin Crawford for the Polar Bears was keeping them in the game with 18 first-half points.

The Thorobreds continued to pull away in the third period. They 19 more points on the board compared to 11 for Bracken County for a comfortable 70 to 39 lead going into the fourth period.

Coach Larry Kendall played all reserves in the final period. This gave Landon Palmer and Austin Short an opportunity to shine against the Bracken County regulars.

Palmer scored eight points in the period. Short hit for six in the fourth quarter while grabbing eight rebounds.

The Thorobreds ended the game with the 91 to 55 total. The Breds grabbed 39 rebounds to 20 for the Polar Bears.

Crawford led all scorers for the night with 30 as he was the only Bracken County player in double figures.

Jenkins was the leading scorer for Harrison County in this game where everyone scored for the Breds with 18 points.

Zack Pulliam added 17, Ritchie scored 12, Palmer 11 points and Dillon Pulliam chipped in with 10 for five Thorobreds in double figures.

The Breds improved to 11-12 for the season while Bracken County dropped to 9-12. In the preliminary games the Harrison County freshmen won in two overtimes and the junior varsity won 43 to 17 over their Bracken County opponents.

HCMS cheerleaders are conference champs

By MIKE ALDRIDGE, SPORTS WRITER

The Harrison County Middle School cheerleaders traveled to Winchester Saturday to compete in the Bluegrass Conference cheer competition and came home the big winners.

The contest was held at Conkwright Middle School with all of the area middle school cheer teams on hand to make for a challenging day.

The Harrison County girls placed first in the small division and their score in that performance gave them the best total of the day which placed them ahead of all teams in all divisions.

This included small, medium, large, super large and co-ed squads that were competing on this day.

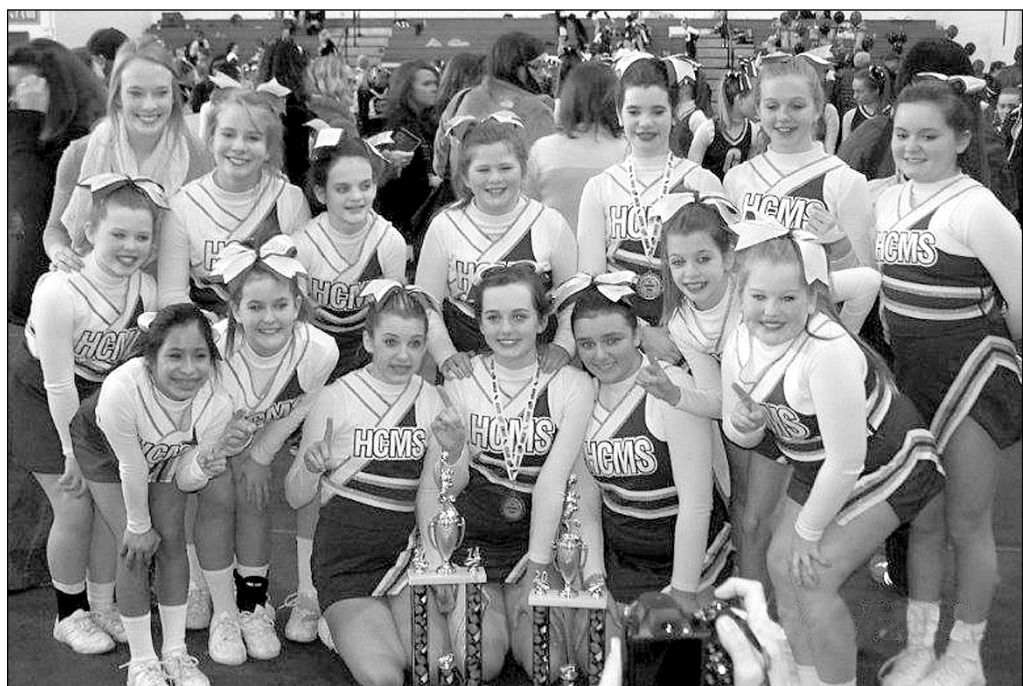

The Harrison County Middle

School cheerleaders also won the Region 10 competition in December and placed seventh in the state competition in January.

"Regardless of how my team placed at their competitions, I am so proud of how the girls have progressed this year," Coach Mackenzie Whalen commented on her girls' performance. "They have put in many hours of practice to achieve their success. Since try-outs, my team has become physically and mentally stronger. They do not give up as easily as they once did and are much tougher. They have learned to push through the little injuries, which is half the battle of coaching a young team."

Harrison County archers advance to state

By MIKE ALDRIDGE, SPORTS WRITER

Harrison County's elementary archery team finished first and the high school team finished second in the KHSAA and NASP regional in Williamstown last Saturday.

The Harrison County Middle School squad was sixth of 17 teams but just missed qualifying for the state though Steven Oaks did qualify with a score of 272.

The elementary school won the five-team division with the first and second place elementary shooter in the competition.

Devan Ayala took first with 267 points while Andrew Nickerson was second with 257 points in the boys' competition.

The girls took second, third and fourth place with Kennedy Sumpter second with 263 points, Ava Craig third with 254 points and Amber Kern fourth with 246 points. The total team score for the Harrison County Elementary team was 2,888.

The Harrison County High School team was second in the team competition missing first place by only 10 points. The 12-team competition saw the Harrison County High School team take first place in both the female and male competition.

Harrison County wrestlers win eight team meet at Hazard

By MIKE ALDRIDGE, SPORTS WRITER

Coach Luke Tucker's Harrison County Thorobreds wrestling team are rounding into shape at just the right time.

The grapplers headed to Hazard last weekend and swept through an eight-team tournament with only six matches lost out of 43. Many of those were losses to teammates.

The region tournament is this week so it appears that the wrestling coaches have the team ready for another run at a region title and then some great performances at the state meet.

On Saturday nine of the Thorobreds breezed through the competition without losing a match. In three cases, the wins were all pins.

Noah Mitchell pinned one Whitley County opponent in 12 seconds. Nathan Lopez took down a Perry County Central wrestler in 16 seconds as the Thorobreds demonstrated their mastery.

The matches were not all that quick, but overall Harrison

County was the class of the tournament.

Michael Mattox, Lopez, Colton Mott, Mitchell, Colin Coy, Mason Fryman, Sean Mullikin, Clay Arthur and Kellon Williams were all undefeated in their matches. Brandon Williams and Domonic Walker both were 3-1, Williams in the 170 lbs. class and Walker in the 285 lbs. group.

Harrison County won the meet with 115 points though some of the weight classes where the Thorobreds could have scored more were not counted due to the other teams not having enough participants.

The host, Perry County Central, was a distant second with 61 points followed by Pike Central, 38, Whitley County, 36, Letcher Central, 35, East Ridge, 21, Belfry, 14, and Phelps, 10.

Many of these teams are in the new region where the Thorobreds have been placed so the matches coming up this weekend show some real promise.

MIKE'S MINUTE

A couple happenings

It's only Monday and I can't get some issues out of my mind, some good, some not so good in my opinion.

I am going to write about each of them if only to think my way through them if for no other reason.

First the positive because it is always good to find positive thoughts on Monday.

The Harrison County cheerleaders finished 12th in the nation on Sunday. That is good, maybe great or even grand.

The Harrison County Middle School cheerleaders won the overall competition in the Bluegrass Conference Saturday morning. They came back to Cynthiana and cheered for the Thorobreds in their game with Campbell County on Saturday night in the absence of the varsity squad that was hard at work in Orlando.

The middle school girls did a great job at the varsity game though there was not much of a crowd in attendance to work with on Saturday.

The varsity game on Saturday was a life lesson, I hope, for the Thorobreds.

In this game Harrison County led 40 to 22 at the half only to lose on a last second shot by Campbell County's Matt Wilson.

When the team went to the dressing room at the half, a casual observer could tell that they thought the game was over and that showing up in the second half was all that would be required.

Mike Aldridge
Sports Writer

I am reasonably sure that the coaches told them at the break that the game wasn't over and here is what they had to do to win, but young people sometimes do not hear everything they are told.

I know that is a revelation to parents everywhere, but yes sometimes the teenager does not hear you even though they heard you.

Speculators will want to focus on a missed lay up or a turnover or a missed free throw or perhaps a time out that was or wasn't called, but losing an 18-point lead in just about five minutes takes a complete team effort, not one or two people messing up.

The thing to do now is regroup and use this game as a rallying point like "Remember the Alamo" or "No Prisoners" and go forward to make the most of the season.

One last thing, who cares if a player is gay or not? Why do we need to know and why is it the lead story on every sports page and sports talk show in the country? If he or she can make tackles, get rebounds, make shots, ride a horse, skate, whatever is what matters in sports.

What they do, if it is legal, outside the game matters not and I don't want to know.

Fillies lose two weekend games to Brossart, Grant County

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

The Harrison County Fillies put up a good battle Friday night when they played host to the Lady Mustangs of Bishop Brossart only to lose by a 48 to 36 margin.

Foul trouble for senior center Jordan Doram spelled trouble for the Fillies in this game. Brossart took advantage of her time on the bench to take a lead that the Harrison County girls could not overcome.

Harrison County played the second rated team in the 10th Region close in the first period trailing only 14 to 11 after the opening session ended.

Seventh grade point guard Madison Kellione and sophomore Madison Philpot withstood the trademark Bishop Brossart pressure enough to have their team right in the game in this period.

However, Doram picked up her third foul early in all know, has not been conducive for outdoor training so the Fillies and Thorobreds have been concentrating on hurdles indoors. The results Saturday were evidence of that.

Kassidy Cook ran the 60M hurdles in one 100th of a second off Katelyn Gray's record as she finished third in 09.74. Caylin Mattox was fifth in 10.10; and Haley Carr was 14th in 10.51.

The boys results were also good for the first time out as Colton Burus was 16th in 09.43 and Derrick Nunnelley was 21st in 09.63 in stiff competition.

Cook also participated in the long jump where she finished seventh with a leap of 15-feet-00.75.

"We are proud of how our athletes competed," said Coach Danny Simpson. "We performed very well considering our preparation time has been very limited."

The season continues with meets in Mason County on the next three Saturdays.

Senior Mason Ritchie ponders his next move in the Thorobreds' game against Campbell County last Saturday.

Breds

From BREDS page 10

between the Campbell County Camels and the Thorobreds figured to be a potential preview of what could happen in the 10th Region tournament.

Though the 'Thorobreds' record is not as good as Campbell County's, they are widely thought to be one of the best teams in Kentucky with a losing record.

It would be fair to say that Harrison County shot out the lights in the first quarter of Saturday night's ball game.

Jenkins penetrated the Camels' defense time after time for easy baskets as the Breds sprinted out to 26 to 11 lead at the end of the first quarter.

The 'Thorobreds' attack was balanced in the opening period with all five starters plus Zack Pulliam scoring led by Jenkins' nine and Dillon Pulliam's seven points.

The Breds kept the scoring up in the second period. Campbell County stopped the penetration but Harrison County continued to shoot well from the floor. The attack was led by Dillon Pulliam's six second quarter points.

The halftime score was 40 to 22 with Harrison County holding the 18-point advantage.

It is unusual for the wheels to come off in the locker room but something happened to Harrison County during halftime.

Campbell County came out on fire led by junior Deondre Jackson, who scored 16 of his game high 26 points in the third quarter.

Before the Harrison County squad or coaching staff could blink, the Camels had gone on a 22-to-two run. At the end of the period they trailed by only one at 52 to 51.

Senior Grant Carr did his best to keep the Breds from losing a game that had appeared to be in the bag as he scored seven of his team-high 15 points in the last period.

The game was nip and tuck for the entire period as both the Camels and the Thorobreds tightened up and were unable to shoot well.

The score was 61 all with around 40 seconds to play with Harrison County in possession. The Breds passed the ball around the perimeter until Carr was fouled with a little more than 10 seconds to play.

The senior stepped to the line with one and the bonus but the first shot hit the front of the rim and was rebounded by Campbell County.

After a timeout, the visitors worked the ball in for a shot, which was missed, but sophomore center Matt Wilson put the ball back in the basket with 1.4 seconds left on the clock.

After the Breds called a couple of timeouts, Pulliam got off a shot from beyond half court which was missed and the Harrison County collapse was complete.

Campbell County left the building with a 14-5 record and the Breds fell to 11-13 and a sick feeling that they had let one get away.

Jackson scored 26 to lead all scorers with Wilson with 12 and senior Corey Holbrook the other two Camels in double figures.

Carr's 15 points was the most for the Thorobreds followed by Thompson and Pulliam with 13 points each. Jenkins scored 11 points the majority in the first quarter and all in the first half.

Fillies

the second period forcing Coach Kim Furnish to put her senior starter on the bench for the duration of the period.

The Lady Mustangs, to their credit, took advantage of the absence of Doram to build the lead to 10 points by halftime at 27 to 17.

The Fillies came out in the third quarter and battled the Lady Mustangs tooth and nail showing a desire to win that has been missing in some as of late.

The Harrison County girls cut into the lead and ended the quarter with a nine-point deficit despite Doram having to play tentatively due to the foul trouble.

The Brossart defensive pressure was consistent throughout the second half as it had been in the first. The Fillies could not put enough offense together to overcome the second quarter shortage and they fell to Bishop Brossart by the 48 to 36 final score.

Doram missed a double double by one rebound as she pulled down nine boards to go with her team-high 16 points.

Chelsea Ingram came out of her scoring slump somewhat by also scoring in double figures with a 10-point effort.

The loss left the Fillies with a 9-12 record going into Saturday's game with Grant County.

Saturday's trip to Grant County started disappointingly as the freshman girls were defeated soundly 43-10 by their Grant County counterparts.

The junior varsity had a little more respectable finish losing 37-24 in their match up so the varsity game was the Fillies' chance to redeem the trip.

It was not to be, however, as the Fillies were manhandled in what may have been their poorest effort of the season. They fell 52-29 to the Lady Braves.

Grant County improved its season record to 7-13 with the win on Saturday while the Fillies fell to 9-14.

The Lady Braves jumped out to a 23-to-11 lead by the end of the first quarter and though the Fillies cut the lead back to nine a few times the advantage was 10 at the half at 26-16.

The second quarter saw both teams play poorly as the Fillies won the quarter score by a five-to-three margin.

Grant County only put 13 points on the board in the third quarter, which was lead by freshman Jenna Martin who matched the Fillies team output with nine points in the stanza.

The final period output for Harrison County was the worst of the game as the visiting squad managed only four points, all by Doram.

Grant County scored 13 more in the period for the final 52-29 verdict.

Martin was the leading scorer for the game with 23 as she was the only Lady Brave in double figures.

Doram was the only one of the Fillies to reach double figures with 13.

The Grant County pressure caused 24 turnovers for the Fillies though the defense that they executed was not up to the standard that the Harrison County girls faced the night before with Bishop Brossart.

Looking for input regarding this issue. At this time people are only permitted to advertise on site businesses per the Sign Ordinance. For example, Walmart could only place a sign on its property advertising Walmart; they could not have a sign for Bianckes downtown. This has become a hot issue now that LED signs are becoming the new form of signage use. These signs have the ability to advertise on site and off site on one screen, therefore reducing multiple signage. Join us to offer discussion on this issue as the commission determines if a text amendment is appropriate.

LEADERSHIP GROWTH SUCCESS

— PROCLAMATION —

Whereas, FFA and agricultural education provide a strong foundation for the youth of America and the future of the food, fiber and natural resources systems; and

Whereas, FFA promotes premier leadership, personal growth and career success among its members; and

Whereas, agricultural education and FFA ensure a steady supply of young professionals to meet the growing demands in the science, business and technology of agriculture; and

Whereas, the FFA motto—"learning to do, doing to learn, earning to live, living to serve"—gives direction of purpose to these students who take an active role in succeeding in agricultural education; and

Whereas, FFA promotes citizenship, volunteerism, patriotism and cooperation.

Therefore, I do hereby designate the week of February 15 through 22, 2014 as FFA Week.
